

Who Whom Whose

WHO is used for people. Who is a subject pronoun. Example; I, he, she, we and etc...

We use WHO to ask which person does an action or which person is a certain way.

Examples

- Who's gonna cook dinner today?
- Who prepares the texts in the President's speech?

WHOM is an object pronoun. Example; him, her, us... It should be used to refer to the object of a verb or preposition.

Examples

- This is my brother , whom you met at our house last month.

WHOSE is a pronoun. It is used in questions to ask who owns something.

It is a possessive pronoun. Example; her, his, our and etc...

Examples

- Whose gloves are these?
- Whose notebook was stolen in the class?